

My Return to School Support Plan

This document is intended for use by a leadership or wellbeing team member.

A Return to School Support Plan aims to ensure the best possible reintegration, safety, care and support for a young person returning after time away from school. It should include strategies aiming to keep the young person safe, supported and connected with staff and peers. It outlines situations the young person might find difficult and how these can be managed for them to feel safe and supported.

The Return to School Support Plan should be negotiated with the young person, their family, school wellbeing staff and any health professionals involved in the young person's care. It is ideally done before the young person returns to school. However, if this hasn't occurred, school wellbeing staff should complete the Return to School Support Plan as a priority when the young person does return.

Be aware that sometimes plans or supports can change. It's important to set up regular reviews to see whether the plan is still working or needs updating.

When we start to feel upset, often there are early signs that we need to pay attention to, to stop things getting worse. It's helpful if others are aware of these early signs so they can also provide support.
